We're proud of everything that makes our home uniquely charming, full of life, and naturally beautiful. But don't take our word for it. Come experience all we have to offer for yourself.

The Chamber Foundation is the 501(c) (3) non-profit arm of the Chamber whose mission is to provide educational resources to the Hendersonville community. Fundraising for the Foundation is obtained through personal and business donations, advertising sales for the City Guide and the annual Freedom Festival event held every July 3.

PRIDE IN TRADITION AND LANDMARKS

With Nashville to the south and Gallatin to the east, Hendersonville was a comfortable midpoint for a farming village along Highway 31E. Where the highway met Walton Ferry Road and Old Shackle Island Road, a handful of businesses sat within walking distance of a hundred homes.

Old Hickory Dam converted the quiet village into The City by the Lake. It created two peninsulas, widened Drakes Creek, and formed scenic coves that gained attention. Musicians and industry executives noticed the transformation early. At the same time, the nation's population was shifting to suburbs and to the Sun Belt. To handle the growth, several long-time residents led an effort to form a city government. They succeeded in 1969, by forming the smallest city in Tennessee, just 262 residents and .18 square miles.

New residents usually found Hendersonville after landing professional jobs in Nashville. Between them and rapid annexations beyond the original city borders, Hendersonville was the fastest growing city in the nation during the 1970s. Johnny Cash, Conway Twitty, the Oak Ridge Boys, Roy Orbison, Mandrell sisters, and other country favorites were meeting neighbors who appreciated exemplary schools, active churches, and weekends of recreation.

With a concerted effort in the 1980s and 1990s, Hendersonville began keeping its talent at home during weekdays. The city and chamber of commerce constantly encouraged residents to shop local. They also assisted existing companies that needed to expand while they recruited other businesses from far away. The city opened Freehill Business Park. Filling quickly with industrial and assembly plants, the park's success generated investments in nearby class A office space.

The professionals who lived here found more opportunities to work here.

Additional professional employers, completion of Vietnam Veterans Boulevard, and continued population growth brought a wave of retailers and restaurants. By setting their buildings along New Shackle Island Road and Indian Lake Boulevard, they extended the community beyond its iconic linear stretch of Highway 31E.

The city annexed new homes north of Vietnam Veterans Boulevard and east to Saundersville Road, areas that had once been considered far outside Hendersonville. The newest subdivisions added parks and pools while the city cleared land for dozens of playgrounds and team sports. The lake remained an attraction.

The visiting athletes and customers noticed Hendersonville's attributes. More moved here and opened businesses. One transplant, Taylor Swift, shot toward stardom. The Streets of Indian Lake opened, bringing additional outsiders to Hendersonville for their first time.

The city's population climbed above 60,000 as it celebrated the 50th anniversary of becoming a city.

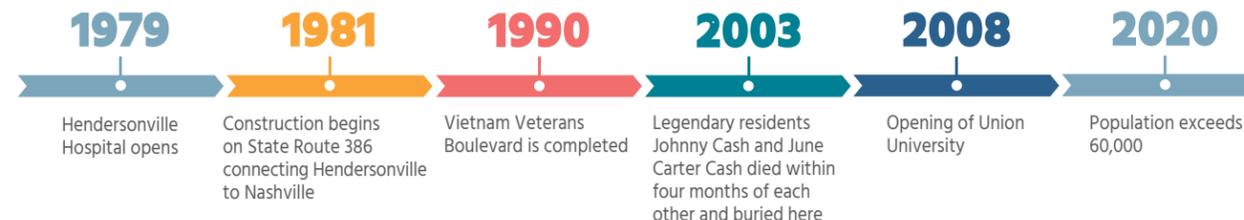

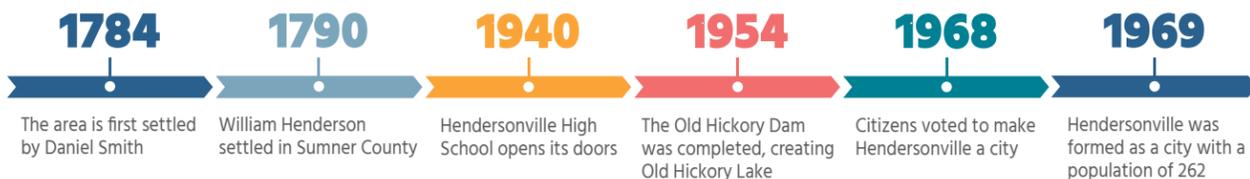

Completed in 1796, Rock Castle is the oldest home in Middle Tennessee. The former home of Revolutionary War hero and U.S. Senator, Daniel Smith, has been meticulously preserved and offers tours daily.

The Tennessee Department of Tourist Development proudly recognizes Hendersonville as being the home of Johnny Cash.

Historic Spring Haven is a beautiful plantation home with rich pre-civil war history. Andrew Jackson, Isaac Franklin, and Adelia Acklen are only a few who share in the rich history of this home.

Monthaven is on the National Historic Register. Built around 1860, it was used as a field hospital during the Civil War. The building is now home to art galleries and offices of the Monthaven Arts & Cultural Center.

PROUDLY SUPPORTING
THRIVE IN THE 37075

The foundation of every city's economy is dependent upon the health and vitality of its core small businesses. Operated by our friends and neighbors, local companies help shape and support the character of our community.

"When people spend their money in Hendersonville, it provides a multiplying boost to our economy that results in more choice and variety for consumers," says Hendersonville Area Chamber of Commerce President/CEO Kathleen Hawkins. "Nearly 50% of the money spent in our city recirculates right here, helping our businesses to grow and our community to thrive."

Along with growing the local economy, there are several other important reasons for supporting Hendersonville's local businesses.

- Local businesses tend to purchase goods and services from other hometown companies, service providers and farms. This interchange leads to a synergistic effect that helps grow the local economy and tax base.
- Local businesses often set up shop in prime shopping areas of the community, resulting in a town center setting that is friendly and welcoming for residents and visitors. The resulting business concentration results in more variety for shoppers as well as a lower environmental impact due to less traffic.

- Local businesses tend to require less infrastructure and use fewer public services in comparison to larger national franchise companies. The reduced demand for governmental support helps to keep the tax rates low in the community.
- Local businesses are usually owned by local people. They tend to be good neighbors who are involved in the community, support local causes and are committed to Hendersonville's welfare and future.

In recognition of the importance of local businesses, the Hendersonville Area Chamber of Commerce has developed several special programs to help them grow and prosper. Two of the most popular initiatives are called Thrive 37075 and Hendersonville is Hiring.

Thrive 37075 is an all-in-one branding campaign based upon the premise that when consumers shop locally, everyone wins. It was designed to be flexible so that it can accommodate both retail and service businesses. Featuring a dedicated logo, supporting graphics and detailed participation guidelines, the campaign seeks to leverage Chamber resources and expertise to help local businesses prosper.

"The Chamber works with local businesses to develop products branded with the Thrive 37075 trademark that their customers can get excited about buying, wearing and sharing," says Kathleen. "In turn, these businesses work with other local printers, designers and manufacturers to bring the merchandise to life and sell it in their stores. They build the brand, create customer loyalty and reap the proceeds from the product sales."

Along with the participating businesses, the overall community also benefits from Thrive 37075. The increased economic activity resulting from the program will generate additional sales tax revenue which will fund roads, fire stations, first responders and schools.

"Shopping local is imperative to the health of our community," says Kathleen. "When shoppers patronize local businesses, their money stays in Hendersonville, helping to build our hometown economy."

The second Chamber program aimed at supporting small businesses is known as Hendersonville is Hiring. This program is designed to help local companies find the workers that they need to support current operations and to facilitate future growth.

"Hendersonville-based businesses hire locally, resulting in quality jobs for area residents," says Kathleen. "Local jobs cut down on commuting traffic, resulting in increased family time and a higher quality of life. Furthermore, local businesses hire people who are known to the community, creating welcoming store fronts that provide superior customer service."

Since its inception, Hendersonville is Hiring has been embraced by many local employers who relied upon it to identify qualified candidates for available positions. Due to the program's success, many companies have made it their primary source for finding new workers.

All in all, the overall health of the community is inextricably tied to the wellbeing of its local business base – a fact that is understood and embraced by the Hendersonville Chamber.

"Supporting local businesses bolsters our overall sense of community, which helps us to attract and retain newcomers to the City by the Lake," says Kathleen. "We encourage everyone in Hendersonville to live local, shop local and love local. Together, we all thrive."

CELEBRATING HENDERSONVILLE'S TEACHERS & STUDENTS

The Hendersonville Foundation was founded in 2010 with the main mission to support Hendersonville's teachers and students.

A few business men and women decided they wanted to do more for our community. Since its inception, the Foundation Board has worked tirelessly to grow the donations distributed annually. The first year we awarded $2,500 in grant awards to Hendersonville teachers and last year we were able to donate $25,908.

We currently support annual awards to classroom teachers for innovative projects they conduct with students. Not only do these projects impact the educational experience for the current year for which the award is made, but many of the projects have a shelf life of up to five years, multiplying exponentially the number of students who benefit. Over the past 15 years, over $300,000++ has been awarded through this program.

Other programs include an annual scholarship for a student at Volunteer State Community College since 1996, participation in the capital campaign for the new Hendersonville Public Library and initiatives to support the startup Leadership Academy at Union University and teacher Development at Welch College.

If you know of a teacher in our area that is in need of funds in order to better their students please call 615-824-2818.

EDUCATION

WHERE LEARNING
AND ACHIEVEMENT
COME FIRST

Fortunately, Hendersonville is blessed with some of the best public and private schools in the state of Tennessee. From kindergarten through high schools, Hendersonville children have a wide range of outstanding educational options. In addition, Hendersonville is able to boast of a comprehensive array of higher education options, ranging from advanced certificates through fully-accredited doctoral programs.

SUMNER COUNTY Public Schools

Hendersonville is served by multiple elementary, middle and high schools which are operated by the Sumner County Board of Education. Each school is dedicated to ensuring that all students receive well-balanced educations that help to prepare them for their futures.

While Hendersonville schools place a strong emphasis on academics, they also provide students with multiple avenues for exploring music, the arts, athletics and extra-curricular activities.

Public Elementary Schools

Hendersonville is served by thirteen of the best elementary schools in Middle Tennessee. With caring faculties and strong community support, each of these schools is committed to help their students learn and achieve.

Two of the schools, Jack Anderson Elementary and Dr. William Burrus Elementary at Drakes Creek, have been designated STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts and Mathematics) schools.

Public Middle Schools

The middle school grades of six through eight are often among the most challenging periods faced by young learners. They can be awkward years in which students struggle, trying to bridge the gap between childhood and young adulthood.

Hendersonville's seven middle schools are committed to helping their students succeed during these years. Their dedicated faculties will help young teenagers continue their academic progress as they prepare for the rigors of high school.

Public High Schools

Older students in Hendersonville are fortunate to be served by five of the best public high schools in the state. Whether they attend Hendersonville, Beech or Station Camp, students will receive excellent educations with unparalleled extracurricular opportunities.

Each of the schools has a track record for graduating seniors who are well prepared for whatever opportunities await them, including college, trade school, the military or immediate employment.

Merrol Hyde Magnet School is a traditional academic school with a primary focus on foreign language. It is accredited by the Tennessee Department of Education and the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The school operates under the Paideia philosophy, which blends traditional classroom training with specialized Socratic seminars and individual projects. Admission to Merrol Hyde Magnet school is a rigorous process that requires students to meet special acceptance criteria. Most applicants are typically in the top 15% of their class at their previous schools prior to coming to Merrol Hyde Magnet School.

SUMNER COUNTY

The Sumner County Middle College High School is operated on a collaborative basis by the Sumner County Board of Education and Volunteer State Community College.

The unique program is designed to give highly-motivated students opportunity to receive a high school diploma while earning credits toward a college degree or exploring vocational and career options. Most students earn enough college credits to graduate with both a high school diploma and an associate's degree at the same time.

Private Schools

Along with its outstanding public schools, Hendersonville is also served by private schools that offer parents and students additional choices, including Pope John Paul II, which enrolls over 600 middle and high school students. Additionally, Hendersonville Christian Academy is a private school which enrolls more than 300 students from pre-K through high school.

COLLEGE EDUCATION
OPTIONS ARE VARIED
AND ABUNDANT

Over the past decade, there has been an explosion in higher education opportunities in the State of Tennessee. Beginning with the Tennessee HOPE Scholarship in 2003 and continuing with the Tennessee Promise (for recent high school graduates) and Tennessee Reconnect for (returning adult students) programs, there has never been a more affordable time for state residents of all ages to pursue their dreams of higher education.

The continued growth of educational opportunities has placed Hendersonville residents in the unique position of being able to go from preschool through a doctoral program, all without ever having to leave the City by the Lake.

TN College of Applied Technology

Tennessee College of Applied Technology, or TCAT for short, is accredited by the Council of Occupational Education. Mr. Nathan Garrett serves as the proud President of a college with long and rich tradition in serving the residents of Middle Tennessee. TCAT offers a wide variety of programs for its students by giving students the opportunity to acquire marketable skills for entry into the labor market, or upgrade present skills and knowledge of those already employed.

At this time, TCAT Nashville is one of the top colleges of the twenty-seven Colleges of Applied Technology in the state, providing hands on college accredited, highly skilled, low-cost occupations, dual enrollment for our local high schools, and workforce development training.

Union University

Originally founded in 1823 in Jackson, Tennessee, Union University established its local presence in 2008, operating out of vacant space in Hendersonville's First Baptist Church. From 2008 until 2010, Union only offered graduate programs in Christian Studies and education through its church campus. During 2010, the university began offering an adult bachelor's degree completion program in Hendersonville under the direction of Dr. Renee' Dauer, who currently serves as the local Campus Director and Dean of the School of Adult and Professional Studies.

In 2012, Union relocated to a new dedicated 24,000 square-foot facility on Indian Lake Boulevard. Following this move, the university began offering many new undergraduate and graduate programs.

Currently, these programs include undergraduate and graduate programs in nursing, graduate programs in education, an associate degree in professional studies, and two bachelor's degree programs for adult students in organizational leadership and Christian leadership. Union also offers several degree options entirely online, including an AACSB-accredited Master of Business Administration degree.

According to Dr. Dauer, over 95% of Union's nearly 300 students served by the Hendersonville campus are considered full-time, with ages ranging between 22 to 60 years old. One exception to this age demographic is for students enrolled in Union's traditional nursing program. Through a partnership with Welch College in Gallatin, traditional-age students complete their first two years of college at Welch and then transfer to Union's Hendersonville campus to complete their final two years to earn a Bachelor of Science in Nursing. The university follows the traditional three term school year (fall, spring and summer semesters) but also offers five accelerated terms throughout the year that allow students to earn hours through concentrated short-term instruction. Per Dr. Dauer, "Union strives to meet people where they are in life and help them navigate the path to finish a degree in their desired field of study. We help people reach their goals, changing their lives, changing their family's lives and changing their community."

Volunteer State Community College

Founded in 1971, Volunteer State Community College (Vol State) is the oldest institution for higher education located within the county. Located just minutes from Hendersonville in Gallatin, Vol State has served tens of thousands of area students since the early nineteen seventies.

Originally chartered as a community college to offer two-year Associate's degree programs, Vol State has continued to expand its programs over the years, adding additional majors as well as several professional certificates. Currently, Vol State offers more than 100 academic programs to its more than 8,100 students. According to Vol State President Dr. Orinthia Montague, "the most popular field of study is the University Parallel program, which permits students to earn Associate's of Arts or Science degrees before transferring to four-year institutions to complete bachelor's degrees."

While its primary campus is in Gallatin, Vol State has a full slate of online courses and degree programs that permit students to attend college at any time and location. The college also maintains satellite campus locations in Cookeville, Livingston, Springfield, Mt. Juliet, and Springfield.

Welch College

Welch college is the latest addition to the Hendersonville-area higher education landscape.

Founded in Nashville in 1942 as Free Will Baptist Bible College, the school relocated to an all-new campus in nearby Gallatin, Tennessee during 2016. Welch has the distinction of being the only higher education institution in Sumner County that offers residential dormitory housing for its students.

Welch offers a variety of undergraduate degree programs as well as a graduate Master of Arts in Theology and Ministry degree. Undergraduate courses of study include Biology-Pre-Med/Pre-Nursing, Business, English, Exercise Science, History, Ministry, Psychology and Teacher Education. Welch also offers an adult degree completion program in Enriched Studies (evenings and online) as well as several online associate's and bachelor's degree options. Finally, Welch offers a "dual enrollment" option with nearby Station Camp High School whereby students can earn college credits while still in their high school. According to President J. Matthew Pinson, who has served in that role since 2002, Welch's "emphasis is upon traditional students, aged 18 to 22, seeking a 4 year on-campus residential experience." This experience is designed to be like most residential colleges and universities, including the opportunity to join social clubs (similar to fraternity and sorority "rush" activities), participate in arts and cultural events and to participate in or attend intercollegiate athletic activities such as cross-country, volleyball, basketball, golf and soccer. Along with these activities, Welch students also participate in community service activities which provides over 10,000 hours of local assistance to area agencies each year.

DIVERSE home options

FROM STARTERS AND
CONDOS TO ESTATES, AND EVERYTHING IN BETWEEN

As Hendersonville continues to grow, the demand for more diverse and robust housing options expands accordingly. And the array of home choices are certainly copious, offering something for practically everyone. From $150k starter homes to well-appointed, multi-million-dollar estates suited for CEOs and celebrities, Hendersonville can accommodate the lifestyle you want to afford. With an average home value of about $291k, Hendersonville is quite affordable compared to our counterparts South of Nashville. All while offering the safety, charm and beauty of our lakeside community, which now expands well into the countryside north of the lake.

Older homes with larger, forested properties abound in the more established Indian Lake Peninsula, a desirable location for those who appreciate a life closer to the lake. Both Indian Lake and Walton Ferry peninsulas are dotted with newer high-end developments taking advantage of prime lakefront property.

New residential developments continue to fuel the most explosive growth north of Vietnam Veterans Blvd (the 386 bypass). Expansive, walkable neighborhoods continue to emerge, such as Millstone, Durham Farms, and Saundersville Station. These neighborhoods and others offer a range of options, depending on your lifestyle needs and desires.

For those who prefer apartment living, the Indian Lake corridor offers numerous options for the more discerning dweller among the bustle of the city's shopping and dining hub.

With development, however, less space becomes available and larger tracts of land are harder to come by within the city limits. So developers have become creative with the best use of space, knowing that we are land-locked to the south by our cherished lake. But that certainly doesn't mean there are limits to your imagination. Hendersonville has a place to live for those who want to thrive in the desirable place we all love to call "home."

AN entertaining PLACE TO BE

NIGHTLIFE & FAMILY FUN APLENTY

Hendersonville has a rich entertainment legacy that has grown and evolved over the city's 53-year existence. During its early years, the city's primary entertainment connection was its nearness to Nashville. Many singers, songwriters and musicians who worked in the Music City chose to live in Hendersonville to enjoy a more laid-back lifestyle. They soon realized that the City by the Lake had much more to offer than just a quick commute to Nashville – it was filled with a beauty and grace of its own.

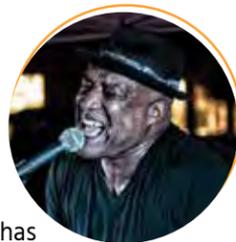

The legendary artists who have called Hendersonville home reads like a "who's who" list of the music world. Johnny and June Carter Cash, Taylor Swift, Roy Orbison and Kelly Clarkson – the list goes on and on. Today, the entertainment heritage continues, with noted A-listers such as Ricky Skaggs, the Oak Ridge Boys, Jamey Johnson and the Isaacs all having planted their roots in Hendersonville.

No longer is Hendersonville under the shadow of Nashville. Instead, the city has become a vibrant community filled with an ever-increasing array of entertainment options. Let's take a look at some of the exciting opportunities available in the City by the Lake.

Music & Nightlife

Given its history, it is no surprise that Hendersonville has become home to a burgeoning music and nightlife scene. From small, intimate venues to full-blown outdoor concerts, there is always a song in the air in Hendersonville.

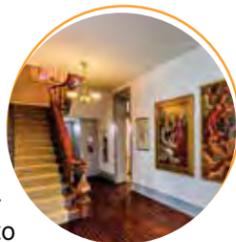

Several local restaurants feature regular live performances, including the Rudder at Anchor High Marina, Sea Salt, Moby Dicky's, the Smashin Crab and Jolly Ollie's. Foodies and music lovers come from near and far to savor some of the area's finest cuisines while relaxing to their favorite tunes.

Other musical venues across Hendersonville also offer their own brands of live music, ranging from jazz to bluegrass and country to rock and roll. Both the Streets at Indian Lake and the Lighthouse on the Lake all offer special concerts throughout the year that will please the ears of the most discerning music lovers. In addition, historic Rock Castle features critically acclaimed musical events throughout the year.

For those who prefer their music large and loud, the Hendersonville Hometown Jam concerts are sure to please. Held at different times throughout the year at various local parks, the Jams feature the best in current and rising stars in country music. Recent concerts have featured performances by star acts such as Ricky Skaggs, Colin Raye and Lindsay Ell.

Arts & Culture

Along with exciting live music performances, Hendersonville is also home to a diverse and growing arts and cultural movement. Spearheaded by the Hendersonville Arts Council, artistry and creativity are alive and well in the City by the Lake.

The prestigious Monthaven Arts & Cultural Center (MACC) is the hub of everything arts in Hendersonville. Located in a historic mansion, the MACC features year-round displays of visual art by talented painters, sculptors, crafters and other artists ranging from local school children through Picasso. The MACC also offers a full range of art classes that are appropriate for everyone, from beginners through accomplished artists.

The performing arts are also alive and well in Hendersonville, as evidenced by the outstanding productions regularly staged by the Hendersonville Performing Arts and Actor's Point Theater companies. Hendersonville theater patrons do not have to leave the city limits to enjoy outstanding comedy, drama and musical stage productions.

For those looking to have even more fun with their art, several local businesses have just the answer. Pinspiration and Painting with a Twist offer guests the opportunity to create their own personalized artwork with their friends while savoring their favorite libations.

Aspiring dancers also have plenty of opportunities to master their art in Hendersonville. Studios such as the Tutu School, WRK.PLC, Fred Astaire and World Champion Productions are eager to help students develop the skills and social graces that come through dance.

Family Fun

Family fun opportunities abound in Hendersonville, ranging from outdoor parks events to year-round indoor activities. The Strike and Spare Family Fun center offers a one-stop entertainment experience featuring bowling, indoor rides, arcade games, laser tag, roller skating and much more. All Air Extreme Trampoline Park offers the area's only indoor bounce facility, catering to groups of all sizes as well as individuals.

For those seeking to enjoy the latest in cinema releases in plush comfort, there is no place like the Regal at the Streets of Indian Lake. The 16-theater facility offers state-of-the-art sight and sound facilities, with amenities ranging from reclining seats to IMAX.

Country Club Life

Since 1951, much of the social life in Hendersonville has revolved around Bluegrass Yacht & Country Club. Founded 18 years before the incorporation of the city of Hendersonville, the club offers a number of amenities, including an 18-hole championship golf course and pro shop, a fully equipped tennis center, a junior Olympic size pool and a full-service marina.

Broadcast Entertainment

Live broadcast entertainment is also on tap in Hendersonville, with radio and television programming being regularly developed at local production studios. Radio aficionados can enjoy the best mix in music on WHIN radio, with many programs created locally at the Streets of Indian Lake.

Television enthusiasts have the opportunity to participate in the taping of the Huckabee Show each week at the Trinity Broadcasting Network studios in Hendersonville. Free tickets are available to audience members who are treated to a behind-the-scenes look at the production of the talk and music-themed program.

OUR Nashville NEIGHBOR

NEARBY SPORTS AND LEISURE

Hendersonville's continuing growth has made it the perfect place to plant roots and raise families. With friendly neighborhoods, excellent schools, outstanding parks, a thriving retail and restaurant base and a burgeoning arts and music scene, our city has much to offer.

However, for those who wish even more, the hottest city in the nation is just 20 minutes away – Nashville, aka the Music City. In recent decades, Nashville has emerged from a sleepy mid-sized town to become an entertainment and cultural juggernaut that attracts millions of visitors each year.

At one time, Nashville's primary claim to fame was being the home of country music and the Grand Ole Opry. These days, it is known for that and much more, having morphed into one of the world's most popular destination cities.

Nashville's ascendency to "It City" status has come about due to the allure of its many business and entertainment opportunities. Today, Nashville boasts professional sports teams, world-class music venues, exciting nightclubs and lavish resort hotels. The city also serves as a world-renowned healthcare center, as well as the home for many corporate headquarters.

Fortunately, Nashville's rise has also benefitted Hendersonville and Sumner County. Local businesses have thrived in part due to the impact of Nashville's economic engine. This influence will continue to grow in the years to come, through symbiotic developments such as the recently announced Nashville Predators' Ford Ice Center.

Despite Nashville's impact, the benefits have not been one-sided. Hendersonville also contributes a great deal to the Nashville. Many key influencers call Hendersonville home, including entrepreneurs, Tennessee Titans and Grammy Award-winning artists.

There is no doubt about it, Hendersonville residents have it made. They can take advantage of all that Nashville has to offer at any time, and still return home to the beautiful City by the Lake.

OLD HICKORY lake

PLAY TIME ABOUNDS ON THE WATER

Hendersonville is blessed to be the home of Old Hickory Lake, one of the most popular recreational areas in the state. From casual lake cruises to competitive fishing to summer afternoons filled with skiing and tubing, Old Hickory Lake has something to offer everyone.

Formed by nearby Old Hickory Dam and the Cumberland River, the lake spans over 22,500 acres in Sumner and four other adjacent counties.

With a nominal pool elevation of 445 feet above sea level, Old Hickory Lake is perfectly suited for lake and river craft of all sizes. All dam and lake operations are managed year round by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

While Old Hickory Lake is accessible from many points in Sumner County, Hendersonville is the hub, boasting over 26 miles of lakefront shoreline. In addition, Hendersonville has three marinas on the lake, Creekwood, Drakes Creek and Anchor High. These marinas offer full-service for boaters to help them get the most out of long days on the lake.

Old Hickory Lake is known to anglers around the country for its wide variety of fish, including catfish, crappie, bass and walleye. The diversity of fish coupled with easy access and navigation makes Old Hickory Lake a popular location for professional fishing tournaments.

The lake is also home to a large number of waterfowl, including herons, cranes, gulls and eagles, including the majestic Bald Eagle. There are many wooded places surrounding the lake that are ideal for birdwatchers and nature lovers, including a 23-acre wildlife viewing area located near the Lock 3 Recreation area on Walton Ferry Road.

Whether you prefer the slow pace of kayaks and canoes or the heart-pounding thrill of high-performance ski boats, Old Hickory Lake is the place to be.
